This morning the Speaker of the House of Representatives Anglu Farrugia paid an official visit to the National Audit Office to present certificates to seven staff members who successfully passed the Professional Education for Supreme Audit Institution Auditors (PESA) programme organised by the INTOSAI Development Initiative (IDI), which is an international body that supports Supreme Audit Institutions (SAIs) to enhance their performance and capability.

During his welcome address, Charles Deguara congratulated the successful staff members for their impressive achievement; indeed, this Office was the only supreme audit institution (of the 87 SAIs from around the world) to achieve a 100% success rate in this challenging and extensive training programme. He reiterated management's commitment to continue providing the best opportunities for ongoing professional development to all NAO staff.

Ms Archana Shirsat, IDI's Deputy Director General, sent a recorded message of congratulations since, unfortunately, she could not be present for this award ceremony due to other commitments. She congratulated NAO Malta for the outstanding 100% success obtained by its auditors.

Speaker Anglu Farrugia, whilst also congratulating the successful staff members, conveyed his appreciation to NAO's management and staff for the sterling work being undertaken by the National Audit Office. He emphasised the fundamental importance of ongoing quality training to all staff, as was also the case within the House of Representatives.

Later, the Speaker of the House of Representatives presented the certificates, issued officially by IDI, to the successful staff members.
